μm

February 12 – March 7, 2026
opening on Thursday, February 12, from 12 to 9 pm μm means micrometer, a unit of the infinitesimally small. It becomes the symbol of an exhibition devoted to very small-format works, where precision and detail take center stage.

Backslash presents an exhibition dedicated to the richness and diversity of small-scale works, where each artist's universe asserts its own perspective. Bringing together around forty emerging or established artists, the exhibition's layout engages in an unprecedented dialogue with works by the gallery's artists.

All techniques are represented - painting, drawing, photography, sculpture, mixed media - creating a lively and eclectic display. Each work, despite its small size, exudes remarkable strength and individuality. The small format concentrates the gesture and detail, intensely revealing each artist's personality. It invites visitors to engage in careful observation, where every nuance and idea gains special significance, offering an experience that is both intimate and striking.
